

PATRIOTISM

SOLID AS A ROCK

IOWA ARTIST'S PATRIOTISM IS SOLID AS A ROCK

Along side the highway near Greenfield, Iowa, 19 year old Ray Michael Sorensen II has turned an ordinary boulder into an extraordinary portrait of patriotism.

Each year Sorensen paints and repaints the rock with images that express his true American colors.

Each year for Memorial Day, "Bubba", nicknamed by his friends, covers the previous year's mural with white paint and starts with a blank canvas.

Sorensen's new and creative image pays tribute to those who've served and sacrificed so much for the freedom we enjoy.

Bubba's Boulder is located on Highway 25, 12 miles north of Greenfield, Iowa. The rock is 12 feet high and weighs approximately 56 tons. See www.bubbazartwork.com for more details.
